Design Concept: “Change and Continuity”

1. Architectural form responding to familiarization of space, through the roof and exposed brick hence harmonizing with the surrounding and attempting to make a connection with the past.
2. Hybrid sustainable model, partially self sustaining through ; water harvesting, and grey water management and re-use. Given the specific context we can only slowly transform into a full self sustained model hence hybrid in natru
3. Combining Rat trap bond masonry with water duct over roof headroom for rain water collection, distribution through masonry cavity and re-use.

Combing Architectural response to the context and service system design techniques to allow the interaction between the past and the future hence defining the present.
